

Al Qayed Holding Group's SonicWall Solution Checks Off All the Boxes

Al Qayed Holding Group now enjoys more secure email, greater visibility and control, enhanced threat protection, improved wireless capabilities, a higher degree of flexibility and more.

Business Need

While the company had relied on SonicWall firewall appliances since 2011, Al Qayed Holding Group was looking for a more powerful network security architecture that could accomplish a wide variety of goals. The company wanted to safeguard against common and advanced threats and protect publicly available services and servers, including email. But it was also looking for increased visibility for website and app usage and additional control over access and usage of network resources and the flow of data. In addition, Al Qayed Holding Group wanted its new solution to be both complete and easy to manage, with scheduled email reports of virus alerts and risks.

Solution

For perimeter security, the company opted to deploy SonicWall NSa 2650s, along with entry-level TZ series NGFWs and SonicPoint wireless access points. SonicWall Hosted Email Security was added to provide enhanced security for email communication.

Results

Since deploying the new solution, Al Qayed Holding Group has found that the simple but comprehensive threat and network protection offered by SonicWall's multiplatform environment has helped them put the focus back on their business.

But the benefits extend far beyond protection from outside threats. The company also reports immense success in quickly and continuously monitoring all its retail franchises from a central hub. Now, administrators enjoy the flexibility and agility that comes with being able to log in and act from anywhere.

"SonicWall has been extremely helpful for us because it provides significant differentiation and enables us to offer core security aspects that franchises and other businesses desperately need," Dipendra Thapa, Group IT Operations, said. "We have decided to provision more security solutions and might refresh our existing hardware early next year. This speaks volumes on how much we trust SonicWall products. SonicWall's easy-to-manage security solutions represent the best in cybersecurity today."
