Lebenshilfe Workshops Case Study

The Lebenshilfe Workshops in the Aschaffenburg area support and care for people with mental and physical disabilities in their self-determined lives by providing assistance for work and living. A total of 290 employees look after around 680 people with disabilities in residential communities, day support centers and workshops.

Business Need

Cybercrime doesn't skip over social institutions. Due to increasingly complex threats and the growing sophistication of attackers, the support center needed reliable cybersecurity that could meet its needs and requirements. It needed protection for a decentralized infrastructure with a central office and several branch offices and it wanted a guarantee that man-in-the-middle attacks could be avoided.

Solution

Thanks to SonicWall's Network Security Manager (NSM), the company has a holistic approach to security monitoring, compliance and risk management. In addition, a NS*a* 4700 High Availability (HA) cluster at the corporate headquarters provides advanced security control with a modern user interface, device views, and key network and management features. In remote offices, TZ Series firewalls provide automated, real-time detection and prevention of security breaches. The firewall system is rounded out by an email security appliance with High Availability.

Results

SonicWall security services such as DPI-SSL, Capture Advanced Threat Protection and Deep Packet Inspection ensure the best possible security. SonicWall Network Security Manager provides a good overview of the current situation at each various site. In addition, Geo-IP Filtering protects against threats from other countries. The company previously had no email security solution, but with SonicWall it is now able to combat ransomware, zero-day threats, spear phishing and compromised emails.
