

Montigny Investments Ltd. Attains Peace of Mind After Switching to SonicWall

The proudly Liswati-owned timber company hasn't suffered a single breach since making the switch to SonicWall.

Business Need

Based in the Kingdom of Eswatini, Montigny is a proudly Liswati-owned and operated timber company and the leading private integrated timber grower in Southern Africa. With nearly 1,000 employees and a commitment to sustainable and ethical business practices, excellent cybersecurity is something that Montigny absolutely can't compromise on. Montigny sells to markets all around the world and needs cybersecurity that can keep it protected from global threats. The timber company wanted a cybersecurity solution that could not only keep it protected from both known and unknown threats, but one that would also grow with it over time and be supported for a reasonable amount of time.

Solution

After much careful consideration, Montigny decided that SonicWall's reputation for excellent protection, support and customer service made it the ideal provider for the timber company. Members of Montigny's team had worked with SonicWall in the past and knew that SonicWall had a reputation for producing quality products at a solid price point. The organization ended up deploying NSa 2700 and 4700 next-generation firewalls (NGFWs) and linked its three main sites using site-to-site VPNs. Each site also has Capture Advanced Threat Protection (ATP) sandboxing enabled to ensure maximum protection. Montigny is also using SonicWall Analytics to monitor each of its devices, and end users are using SonicWall Global VPN Client (GVC) to access company resources remotely.

Results

Since switching to SonicWall solutions, Montigny has not suffered a single breach. The company is able to maintain its devices cost-effectively on its own after utilizing SonicWall's excellent training. With its perimeter defenses configured securely and properly monitored, its IT team has been able to confidently place its attention on other areas of value for the company. Having SonicWall solutions in place has not only allowed the company to focus on other security issues, but it has also given the IT team peace of mind knowing that SonicWall's solutions are there to keep the network protected.
